We are happy to share more information about how both the Palo Alto Art Center and the ICA San José are centering climate focus in their work.

Travel Insurance

We recommend that you purchase travel insurance in case you are unable to participate in the trip.

Management and Responsibilities

The Institute of Contemporary Art San Jose and Palo Alto Art Center Foundation assume no responsibility or liability in connection with the service of any vessel, airplane, carriage or other conveyance which may be used wholly or in part in the performance of their duty to the passengers, neither will they be responsible for any act, error or omission or for any injury, loss, accident, delay or irregularity which may be occasioned by reason of any defect in any vehicle, or through neglect or default of any company or person engaged in carrying out the purpose for which tickets or coupons are issued. In the event it becomes necessary or advisable for the comfort or well-being of the passengers, or for any reason whatsoever, to alter the itinerary or arrangements, such alterations may be made without penalty to the tour operators. Additional expenses, if any, shall be borne by the passengers. No refund can be made for any feature of the program not used by the passenger during operation of the tour. The agency reserves the right to decline to accept or retain any person as a member of the tour at any time. In such cases the refund will be limited to the actual cost of the unused land tour services.

An Important Note on Travel to Florida

Plans for the trip have been underway for some time, and we are aware of recent travel advisories from both the NAACP and LGBTQ advocacy groups. With that in mind, we have been in touch with colleagues in the region to assess the impact of our trip, to which we have heard: "Solidarity and how those of us outside of Florida can support our fellow humans in the state." This has redoubled our interest in supporting the art scene of Miami. The trip will include opportunities to hear and raise up the diverse voices of BIPOC and LGBTQ+ artists in that spirit.
